FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT

The S&P 500 result season is more than three quarters through already. We can therefore start to make quite firm general conclusions on US company results. Both top-line sales and bottom-line earnings exceed consensus expectations. Earnings growth at +10% is almost double general expectations. Sales growth is accelerating at +4%, demonstrating the increasing positive influence of improving business conditions.

Many commentators refer to a bubble equity environment. The S&P 500 twelve month forward P/E ratio is currently marginally below its long term average since 1990, seemingly reflecting fair overall valuations.

Reckitt Benckiser announced an important corporate action – they are going to spin off and separately list their pharmaceutical business. This enables the core business to focus on consumer health, hygiene and home products, and potentially unlock value for shareholders. The business name changes to RB Group to reflect this new focus.
