FUND COMMENTARY

Hostilities between Israel, backed by the US, against Iran occurred at the very end of the month and the uncertainty in the Middle East was not reflected in the performance of February stock markets. The immediate sharp rise in the underlying Oil and Gas commodity prices which, moving forwards, will be reflected by positive momentum from shares in the sector where the Fund has several holdings. Closure of the Straits of Hormuz would cause a serious disruption in oil supplies as would ultimately cutting off Iranian supply. North Sea companies would be in a favourable position, and it is hoped that the UK Government might think kinder to those producers to stimulate further development. On the political front the defeat by Labour of a safe seat in the Gorton and Denton by-election might prompt the party to rethink some of its policies. A positive factor has been the fall in inflation to 3.0% from 3.4% which could encourage the Bank of England Policy Committee normally to reduce interest rates. However, the situation in the Middle East and effect on energy prices might change the thinking. Nevertheless, the Government is keen to stimulate the economy and a fall in interest rates would help. President Trump is also keen to cut US interest rates and the change in head of the Federal Reserve might help to achieve this ambition. His tariff policies remain unclear now the Supreme Court overturned these charges which the UK had originally been looked on as a favoured partner.

Although investor sentiment improved towards smaller companies and those listed on AIM, there is still the situation with individual shares that have for technical reasons experienced selling pressure where specific funds have reduced positions to match redemptions. One such situation is RWS the translation specialist where results have been affected by margin pressures due to AI competition. However, the recent AGM statement indicated that recovery was back on track, and we have therefore added to our holding. A similar situation is Gateley the legal firm which we added to and is likely to benefit from any improvement in the housing market. Elsewhere we have also increased our holding in Huddled where the online discount trading company raised funds to finance working capital. Several above average sized holding where reduced to finance these purchases. The Middle East conflict creates an area of uncertainty for global trade and a cut in interest rates might be put on hold. We have been encouraged by several trading statements and would look for this to be reflect in share prices when full year results are announced. Our holdings in the oil and gas sector should underpin performance in the short term. In the medium term it is hoped that the Labour Government stimulate growth in the UK economy.

RISK PROFILE

The following risks are material:

- The price of units/shares and any income from them may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. There is no assurance that the investment objective of the Fund will actually be achieved.
- Where investments are in the shares of companies (equities), the value of those equities may fluctuate, sometimes dramatically, in response to the activities and results of individual companies or because of general market and economic conditions or other events.
- Significant exposure to a particular industrial sector or geographical region puts the Fund at risk of a localised event making a significant impact on the value of the Fund.

- Shares purchased on the AIM markets (especially those known as 'penny shares') carry a higher degree of risk of losing money than other UK shares.
- The requirements on companies that are listed on AIM market are less stringent than those for companies with a full market listing.
- There is usually a wider spread between the buying price and the selling price of these shares if they have to be sold quickly.
- There may be difficulty or delay in buying and selling shares due to a low level of trading activity on the AIM market (referred to as lack of liquidity).

All the risks currently identified as being applicable to the Fund are set out in the 'Risk' section of the Prospectus.

INVESTOR PROFILE

The Fund is appropriate for all investor types, including those with only a basic knowledge of funds. It is compatible with investors who do not need a capital guarantee (investors must be prepared to accept fluctuations in the value of capital, including the ability to bear 100% capital loss) and are seeking capital growth. Due to the volatility of markets, investors should be willing to accept price fluctuations in exchange for the opportunity of potentially higher returns. This is a long term investment and investors should have an investment time horizon of at least 5 years. The recommended holding period does not provide any guarantee that the objective will be achieved. This product is eligible for all distribution channels (e.g. investment advice, portfolio management, non-advised sales and pure execution services).

The Fund is unlikely to be appropriate for those who:

Are looking for full capital protection or full repayment of the amount invested, and those who want a guaranteed return

- Have no risk tolerance
- Who are unwilling to accept price fluctuations (volatility) in the value of the fund
- Do not intend to invest for the long term
