FUND COMMENTARY

May was again a strong month for equity markets, as outstanding earnings from technology companies sustained enthusiasm for the AI trade throughout the month. There is currently an acute shortage of many types of semiconductor given the strong level of demand for AI chips. South Korean semiconductor companies delivered particularly strong results; while the US market and the Japanese market, which has a number of interesting automation companies, were also strong.

Oil prices have fallen 20% from their end of April peak, driven by growing market confidence that the conflict in Iran can be resolved and that Iranian supply can gradually return to market. Higher energy prices have already begun to weigh on global growth, particularly in emerging markets which are heavily dependent on energy imports.

The best performers in the Fund in May were companies which serve the semiconductor industry. Cadence Design Systems is a leading semiconductor designer, while ASML is the leading equipment provider. Both companies are well placed to benefit from spend by an industry which has grown much larger to provide the computing power for AI. Safran and GE Aerospace, our jet engine manufacturers, rebounded well as sentiment improved over the Iran war and expectations of global travel volumes recovered.

Detractors from performance in May included Netflix, which is currently absorbing higher content creation costs. Its new advertising tier is however expanding well, with 60% new subscribers choosing an ad-supported plan where available. Stryker, the medical device manufacturer, was also weak following an earlier cyberattack. Operational disruption does appear to have been quickly contained.

During the month we added a new name to the Fund, KLA, which has high market share in process control and yield management systems within the semiconductor industry. We also brought Keyence, the Japanese leader in factory automation, back into the Fund after its results showed that it is starting to benefit from AI-related automation. It has also taken new steps towards a more shareholder-friendly balance sheet policy. We exited Visa and Accenture to fund these purchases. We still very much like Visa's business model but have exposure already through our holding in Mastercard. We are no longer convinced that Accenture will be a beneficiary of AI deployment.

OUTCOME OF FAIR VALUE ASSESSMENTS (2025)

- The fund meets the needs of the target market.
- The intended distribution strategy remains appropriate.
- Historically, the fund did not deliver value for money. In response, as of the 2nd August 2023, Stonehage Fleming Investment Management Limited changed the personnel managing the fund and the approach to investment selection. The fund will follow the strategy pursued by the Stonehage Fleming Global best ideas fund (GBI), and own the same quality growth business as this fund. The historic performance of GBI, together with more information on the manager, can be found at www.globalbestideas.com

INVESTOR PROFILE

The fund is appropriate for all investor types, including those with only a basic knowledge of funds. It is compatible with investors who do not need a capital guarantee (investors must be prepared to accept fluctuations in the value of capital, including the ability to bear 100% capital loss) and are seeking capital growth. Due to the volatility of markets, investors should be willing to accept price fluctuations in exchange for the opportunity of potentially higher returns. This is a long term investment and investors should have an investment time horizon of at least 5 years. The recommended holding period does not provide any guarantee that the objective will be achieved. This product is eligible for all distribution channels (e.g. investment advice, portfolio management, non-advised sales and pure execution services).

The fund is unlikely to be appropriate for those who:

- Are looking for full capital protection or full repayment of the amount invested, and those who want a guaranteed return
- Have no risk tolerance
- Who are unwilling to accept price fluctuations (volatility) in the value of the fund
- Do not intend to invest for the long term

RISK PROFILE

The following risks are material:

- The price of units/shares and any income from them may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. There is no assurance that the investment objective of the Fund will actually be achieved.
- Where investments are in the shares of companies (equities), the value of those equities may fluctuate, sometimes dramatically, in response to the activities and results of individual companies or because of general market and economic conditions or other events.
- Where derivative investments in the Fund may include a counterparty, there is a risk that the counterparty will not fulfil their obligation.
- The Fund may use derivatives to reduce costs, overall risk and/or generate additional capital or income. This is known as Efficient Portfolio Management (EPM). When used for EPM purposes, there should not be an increase in the overall risk level of the Fund.
- More political, economic or structural challenges face emerging markets or less developed countries than developed countries which may increase volatility and uncertainty.
- Where investments in the Fund are in currencies other than your own, changes in exchange rates may affect the value of your investments.
- Significant exposure to a particular industrial sector or geographical region puts the Fund at risk of a localised event making a significant impact on the value of the Fund.

All the risks currently identified as being applicable to the Fund are set out in the 'Risk' section of the Prospectus.
